"On Springdal it is this: slow do the mechanism mechanism in the state of thiogs here purshes me completely. It is this: slow do the working classes live on the wages they get? take into account the German trient for economy, and the andoubted fact that we shredgeers pay more for the annea articles than the natives do, and it still remains a great mystery. Look at him wages they get. There is the chambermald who takes care of my room; she is hard at work in the house from early to late; gets, with with feed and room, but not with washing, a sum cepal to $1.70 is gold a mouth! Up and down these long flights of atoms stairs she goes continually. She say, a! keep, all the time, one pair of shoes on my feet and ope at the shoesmakens." Every pitcher of water must be brough a from the pump on the other side of the square. She has the atternoon of every third Sunday for a holiday. And citches, and shoes, and every necessity of food beyond mere food and shell ter, must come out of twenty-one dollars a year! And she areasts thirty, wears a cheerful face, and has as metry a laugh as ever theard. Or take this case of a walter at a good returner. He wages are his meals at the saloon and $4.50 (in gold) a mouth, two-thirds of which he must pay for his lodgings. Seventeen dollars a year to keep a man in clothing and personal necessities. As for gratuities from customers they are a more triffe, and probably go into a commess effect with these of the other waters, so that special assidality avails him almost nothing. Leaving all other results aside, is it likely that he can afford the luxury of a family? You ask how deen he live himself? This is just the problem I (sannot solve. But he does live, ard stands ready to serve you, civil, handy, week days and flundays, month after mouth.

"This the case of musicians. I go often to a content the can afford the luxury of a family. The is a brand of more than twenty pieces, and their must have content. The performers receiv
